

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Parker Bryant and I am a Wayland High School Alumni that had the absolute pleasure of having the experiences and opportunities that were provided by WayCAM and its facilities.

At an early age while attending a summer program in Wayland, MA called Pegasus Summer Program, I was given the opportunity to learn about television production and cameras through WayCAM and its facilities. This opportunity sparked a passion for curiosity and creativity in me at a young age that only grew as I got older. Over the years I repeatedly took Jim Mullane's program at Pegasus Summer Program, and continued my experiences upon entering Wayland High School by taking Jim Mullane's TV Production and Script to Screen film course at the WayCAM facilities. I learned a great deal about what goes into filming sporting events and dance/theater performances for live broadcasts, but more importantly WayCAM's facilities taught me a great deal about the process of filmmaking through the Script to Screen course. It was these experiences and classroom opportunities that made my decision very easy to study film and television production as my major of coursework in college.

I am now currently a senior at The University of Texas at Austin finishing coursework to receive my B.S. in Radio, Television, Production this upcoming May. I am also finishing my last semester of coursework in college by participating in the university's Los Angeles satellite program while interning for a production company located at SONY Pictures. It would be an understatement to say that my experiences at the collegiate level, and how I got my current internship, were possible because of the rare opportunities WayCAM presented to me at an early age and throughout my time at Wayland High School. Even to this day whenever I talk about the facilities WayCAM offered myself, and my former high school classmates, to my current collegiate classmates they always tell me how lucky I was to have WayCAM's facilities to learn and grow as a student of the cinematic arts since they were never presented with facilities half as equipped or professional as WayCAM's equipment and facilities.

In conclusion, WayCAM served as a foundation for my educational and professional careers up to this point in my life. I owe a lot of what I know now, and have learned since my last days at WayCAM, to the countless hours I spent during and after school at WayCAM. Additionally, I'm sure there are others who have felt similarly about what WayCAM has given to them, and I'm sure there will be others in the future who will also equate their educational and professional decisions in life to WayCAM and what it did for them as students or volunteers.

Sincerely,
Parker Bryant
